

MILLENNIUM
CONSORTIUM ARCHITECTS

DOONZ

ABOUT US

We are a Durban-based architecture practice that places personalisation and professionalism at the heart of our work. Our Practice creates tailored buildings that are carefully considered, commercially efficient and designed to make every interaction meaningful to the people that encounter them.

Established in 2007, the Millennium Consortium Architects (MCA) portfolio spans across retail, commercial, industrial, medical, and both high-end and affordable residential projects, while working in close collaboration with renowned brands, property developers, municipalities and private clients throughout South Africa and abroad.

With a reputable name in the field of Durban architecture since 1983, Tony Whitfield established the renowned and successful Practice Partnership of Ellens & Whitfield Architects. After its dissolution, MCA Architects saw the continuation of its reputation and project portfolio, with a modern brand of bold, expressionist architectural qualities and an innate understanding and accommodation of clients' needs.

Since joining the Practice in 2009, Brad Tomlin has represented MCA Architects with proficiency and vigour, and later stepped up into a management role. In 2024, Brad was promoted to Director of MCA Architects, as the Practice restructured when Tony moved to the United Kingdom to further MCA in the international arena.

With a moving Architectural Career, capped off with an compelling stint in Dubai, Brad and his team are continuing to build on the near two-decade-long foundations, as they lead the Practice's vision firmly into the future through rational insights, collaboration and creativity to bring its architecture to life.
